(6) Forfeitures under this section shall be adjudged by the Chief Executive Officer and any property so forfeited shall be disposed of as the Chief Executive Officer may direct and the cost of the removal of any property under this section shall be recoverable as an arrear of land revenue."

4. Section 55A of the principal Act shall be omitted.

Omission of section 55A.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

In the last few decades, encroachments on Waqf properties has increased exponentially. This has created an undue obstruction of such properties through unauthorized means. It creates a barrier for easementary rights and goes against the right to unobstructed use of such land. While the Waqf Act, 1995 does have provisions to deal with such encroachments, it has been observed that provisions that deal with such removal of encroachments entail a multiplicity in the proceedings required, before such encroachments can be legally removed. Chapter II of the Act deals notification of properties listed as Waqf properties and includes a dispute resolution mechanism. Hence, it becomes pertinent to amend Sections 54 and 55, while omitting Section 55A, in order to remove multiplicity of proceedings. Additionally, the Supreme Court has time and again directed authorities to rigorously remove such encroachments. To enable this, the powers of the Chief Executive Officer of the Waqf Board need enhancement for summarily removing such obstructions. There is a need to improve the procedure for the removal of unauthorized encroachments upon such Waqf properties and safeguard the rights of the Waqf.

Hence, this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Education has a very important role in the development of the nation. As a developing nation, it is important that all children in the country get free school education till class twelfth.

2. The Bill proposes amendments to the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, to provide that every child be given the right to full time elementary, secondary and higher secondary education in a formal school. Accordingly, it is proposed to amend the definition of the "child" by enhancing their age to seventeen years for considering them as a child and also providing them free school education up to class twelfth by suitably proposing amendments to the Act.

3. Only free and compulsory education monitored and ensured by the system can ensure the achievement of the purpose.

4. The proposed legislation, hence, is required to ensure free and compulsory education up to the class twelfth to every male and female child of the age of six to seventeen years, and thereby resulting in the progress of the nation.

5. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objectives.

DR. V. SIVADASAN

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill seeks to extend the free and compulsory education from elementary education to higher secondary education. The Bill, if enacted, would involve additional expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India and it is very difficult to estimate the expenditure at this juncture.

"(a) article 2, article 3, article 54, article 55, article 73, article 162, article 241 or article 279A or".

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

India is called a Union of States and therefore the States are an indestructible and integral part of it. Most of the States have completed more than half a century of existence as stable political entities. The different States now present in India not only denote the particular territorial regions or the administrative divisions, but also represent a culturally integrated democratic community, which has become central to the lives of the people in the States.

2. India being a democratic country upholding federal principles, the States should not be altered without the consensus of the people of these States. Therefore, it is required that the existence of all the States should be protected from any alteration by law with a simple majority in the Parliament. Hence, any changes made to the States should have the protection of article 368 of the Constitution of India.

3. By the Constitution (Eighty-fourth Amendment) Act, 2001, the share of seats of the States in the Parliament was protected from change. This protection is only upto the year 2026. The rationale for undertaking this amendment was ensuring justice to the States who have lowered their population growth through consistent efforts.

4. Keeping in view of the difference in the degrees progress of family planning programmes in different parts of the country, there is a need to extend the current freeze on the number of representatives (Members of Parliament and Members of Legislative Assembly) by not undertaking fresh delimitation up to the year 2051 as a measure so that the States which have succeeded in the adoption of family planning methods are not affected adversely by the reduction in the respective seats allotted to them in the Parliament.

5. At the same time, in order to promote the empowerment of the marginalized sections there is a need to re-fix the number of seats reserved for the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes in the House of the People and the Legislative Assemblies of the States on the basis of the population ascertained at the census for the year 2011 in such a manner that the respective share of the States in the Parliaments is not altered.

6. The Bill seeks to achieve these objectives.

However, any such modification or annulment of that rule shall be without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done under that rule.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Our country is the largest democracy in the world having population of around 139 crores. The Constitution has adopted the system of universal adult suffrage to secure political justice.

A strong Parliamentary system is there. Since 1951, free and fair elections have been conducted at regular interval for both Houses of Parliament, State Legislatures and Local Bodies. Election in India sets norms for many other countries.

But it has been observed that only around sixty per cent voters use their right to vote. It has been observed during almost all elections in the country that the number of voters actually voting is very less than that of eligible voters. Hence, average polling remains very low. This tendency of election clearly indicates us that taking appropriate steps to encourage citizens for exercising their voting rights to elect their representatives is needed so that the results of elections may reflect the intents of all voters and not only of a part of them. In many cases, citizens knowingly do not cast votes or even they boycott elections. Hence, the purport of this Bill is to make voting compulsory for every voter subject to certain restrictions to increase the percentage of voting in the country. However, under this Act such voters, who are either physically incapacitated or have genuine grounds for not doing so, have been exempted.

Since voting is being made compulsory, punishment for those who are not voting has been proposed. Moreover, those voters have been proposed to be given incentives who despite their illness, have continuously exercised their right to vote at elections.

Some of the countries that introduced mandatory voting laws were Belgium in 1892. Argentina in 1914 and Australia in 1924. Countries that enforce compulsory voting are Argentina, Australia, Austria, Bulgaria, Brazil, Chile, Cyprus, Ecuador, Fiji, Greece, Lichtensteen, Mexico, Nauru, Peru, Singapore, Switzerland (One Canton only), Turkey and Uruguay. Compulsory voting is a system in which electors are bound to vote in elections or attend a polling place on voting day. Compulsory voting system confers a higher degree of political legitimacy.

Hence, this Bill.

DEEPAK PRAKASH

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 6 provides for setting up of adequate polling booths in every constituency. Clauses 7 and 8 provide for special arrangements for persons deployed for poll duty and for senior citizens, physically challenged persons and pregnant women to enable them to cast their votes. Clause 11 requires the Central Government to provide adequate funds for carrying out the purposes of the Act.

The Bill, therefore, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. It is estimated that an annual recurring expenditure of about rupees eight thousand crore is likely to be involved. A non-recurring expenditure of about rupees five thousand crore is also likely to be involved.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 10 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Bill which will relate to matters of detail only. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Great Indian struggle for freedom from the oppressive British Raj started with the fall of the Nizam of Bengal in the decisive battle of Plassey on 23rd June, 1757. Between 1765—1947 in the territorial jurisdiction of Bengal Presidency, hundreds and thousands have laid down their lives and many more thousands and lakh of Indians stood against the tyranny of the British Raj.

The very concept of the great Memorial conceived under this Bill is to give space to mention their story and contribution so that every sung and unsung heroes who made notable contribution is remembered forever and our future generation will get an opportunity to learn from the true history of our ancestors and to uphold their ideals and be proud of our great race.

By the creation of this Memorial we shall honour and glorify our brave sons of Bengal. That everyone who laid down his or her life and contributed to the epic freedom struggle spanning over to centuries shall not go down as unsung heroes. The Memorial shall give space to each and every freedom Fighter with their photographs and their contribution to the freedom struggle.

The Memorial to be erected adjacent to the Victoria Memorial will bring forth its truest meaning.—the oppressor verses the oppressed, that such dark history of oppression should not be repeated in future to our holy mother India.

The need is, therefore, to recognize the sacrifice made by the people of Bengal Presidency (1765—1947) who contributed for our freedom movement from the area constituting Bengal Presidency by providing for establishment of the Bengal Freedom Fighters Memorial to perpetuate the memory of both known heroes and unsung heroes.

The Memorial will bring forth the fact that India won its independence through collective zeal of many.

Hence, this Bill.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill provides for the trust to erect and maintain suitable buildings, structures and parks adjacent to the site of the Victoria Memorial in the city of Kolkata; to acquire lands, buildings and other properties for the purposes of the trust; and to raise and receive funds for the purposes of the Memorial. Clause 7 provides for making grants to the trustees by the Central Government after the appropriation by Parliament by law for the purpose of the Act.

The Bill, therefore, if enacted, would involve both non-recurring and recurring expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. However, it is difficult to estimate the amount required for the purpose, as it would depend upon the decisions of the trust.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 12 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the purposes of the Bill. Clause 13 empowers the Trust to make regulations for the prescribed purposes. The rules and regulations will relate to matters of details only, and as such, the delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

BILL NO. XXV OF 2022

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Seventy-third Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 2022;

Short title and commencement.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

2. After clause (2) of article 246 of the Constitution, the following proviso shall be inserted, namely:—

Amendment of article 246.

"Provided that the power of the Parliament to make laws with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the Concurrent List shall be subject to ratification by the Legislatures of not less than one-half of the States by resolutions to that effect passed by those Legislatures before the Bill seeking such provisions is presented to the President for assent."

3. In clause (1) of article 254 of the Constitution, after the words, figure and brackets "subject to the provisions of clause (2)", the words, figures and brackets "and proviso to clause (2) of article 246" shall be inserted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Constitution of India commences with the sentence “India, that is Bharat, shall be a Union of States”. While resolving the above terms, the founding fathers would have borne in mind the need to enshrine, enrich and encourage the rich diversity of the Nation. There won’t be an iota of doubt that the Union Government has a bounden duty to enrich federalism, diversity and pluralism in the Country. Union Government and its instrumentalities are expected to perform in a befitting manner to uphold and nurture the democratic and federal values that the framers of our Constitution had infused into it. Insofar as the legislative powers are concerned, the basic structure of the Constitution is not unitary but quasi-federal in character.

The distribution of legislative powers of Parliament and State Legislatures are mainly delineated in Articles 245 to 253 under Part XI of the Constitution read with the Seventh Schedule thereto. Similarly, Article 254 elucidates the position in case of inconsistency between laws made by Parliament and laws made by the Legislatures of States.

But there are reasonable perturbations now-a-days in respect of legislations put forth by the Union Government with respect to the matters enumerated in List III in the Seventh Schedule (Concurrent List). Such actions will obliterate the values of co-operative federalism and social fabric of the States. Introduction of National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) applying to all States taking away their sovereignty to regulate medical education in the States, apparently conducting Common University Entrance Test (CUET) for admission to Central Universities without giving any weightage for Class XII marks awarded by the State Boards, insertion of Part IXB in the Constitution vide the Constitution (Ninety Seventh Amendment) Act, 2011 vis-a-vis the Co-operative Societies (which was subsequently struck down by the Supreme Court as far as it relates with the co-operative societies working within a State, by declaring that Part IXB of the Constitution is operative only insofar as it concerns multi-State cooperative societies both within the various States and in the Union territories of India), etc. are some examples of this inclination by the Union Government.

Any legislation by the Parliament with respect to the matters enumerated in the Concurrent List ought to have been made only after due consultations and deliberations with States, by taking the State Governments into confidence. It is pertinent to note that the frontline activities of the State Governments put them in the vanguard for the people and to judge the requirements better. Hence consultations and concurrence with the State Governments will ensure a new legislation by the Parliament with respect to the matters enumerated in the Concurrent List more reasonable, justifiable, democratic and inclusive.

In view of the above, there is a need to amend article 254(1) and to insert a new Proviso to article 246(2) of the Constitution of India to ensure inclusive legislation by the Parliament with respect to the matters enumerated in List III in the Seventh Schedule.

Hence, this Bill.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

According to the founding fathers of our Nation, Central Public Sector Enterprises (CPSEs) are the 'temples of modern India'. CPSEs have played a significant role in the growth of economy of the Nation during post-independence era. The CPSEs can be broadly classified into three types, viz. Departmental Undertakings—directly managed by concerned Ministry or Department (e.g. Railways, Posts, etc.), Non-Departmental Undertakings - Public Sector Undertakings (e.g. Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited, Indian Oil Corporation Limited, etc.) and Financial Institutions (e.g. State Bank of India, Life Insurance Corporation, etc.). CPSEs represent a significant portion of the Indian economy. It comprises public services and enterprises and provides services for the benefit of the nation. The rationale behind the establishment of CPSEs was industrialisation and the establishment of capital goods industries and basic industries. CPSEs played a colossal role in the country in the creation of industrial base, employment opportunities, infrastructure, resources to the Government, reduction of inequalities, accelerating the economic growth and development of the country, ensuring social justice, etc. This sector was vital for the generation of capital in the Indian economy for several decades. CPSEs function for the welfare of the public and the overall development of the country at large. Public sector also enables the Government to administer social control on trade and industry for ensuring equitable distribution of goods and services.

Nevertheless, the disinvestment of these CPSEs, once called as crown jewels of the Nation, began in 1991. Any disinvestment of CPSE needs to be viewed in the context of the contributions rendered by States by way of providing land free of cost or at subsidized rates or assistance by cash or in kind or resources for the incorporation or functioning of that CPSE. The present policy of disinvestment doesn't consider this cardinal point. The intent of the Bill is to provide an opportunity to such States to take over the control of such CPSEs or to entitle such States the right to have rateable distribution by way of apportionment, from the proceeds of disinvestment, the value, present value or pro rata share of the total bid amount, whichever is higher, for the land, cash or services provided by it for the incorporation or functioning of the CPSE.

Further there are instances of glaring aberrations in the disinvestment modality also. The proceeds from the disinvestment of the PSUs will be generally meagre when compared to the real value of the CPSEs. There are several factors attributing to this stark contrast. The modality developed by DIPAM to appoint private entities and to delegate them the task of valuation of CPSEs, collection and evaluation of bids, etc. is flawed. A private entity is outside the ambit of 'the Right to Information Act, 2005' or auditing by the Comptroller & Auditor General of India. Delegation of the responsibilities of the Government to external private entities to do the valuation of CPSEs, technical evaluation, collection of bids, etc. attract public criticism, while the responsibility of the Executive to ensure a fair and transparent process will get largely thinned.

Also, the Central Government is at present denying permission to the State Governments or State PSUs in participating in the strategic disinvestment of CPSEs. It will be against the basic values of co-operative federalism enshrined in our Constitution if the Union Government comes forward to infringe the rights of a State or its PSUs in participating in an open bid for the sale of a CPSE. There are no cogent and convincing reasons in preventing States from purchasing CPSEs or participating in the disinvestment process.

In addition, those States which contributed land free of cost or at subsidized rates or assisted by cash or in kind or resources for the incorporation or functioning of a CPSE, whether or not holding shares in that CPSE, are entitled to have preference in the disinvestment process by being given the right of first refusal of purchase of the CPSE directly.

This Bill, therefore, seeks to introduce provisions to safeguard the interests and entitlement of States in the eventuality of disinvestment of Central Public Sector Enterprises as well as to ensure fairness and transparency in the process.

Hence, this Bill.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELAGATED LEGISLATION

Sub-clause 2 of clause 3 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to provide by rules the form of valuation of a CPSE. Sub-clause 7 of clause 3 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to provide by rules the manner in which the competitive bidding for the disinvestment of a CPSE shall be done. Similarly Clause 6(1) empowers the Central Government to make and notify rules to carry out the provisions of this Act.

The matters in respect of which rules may be made under the aforesaid provisions are matters of procedure or administrative details only, and it is not practicable to provide for them in the Bill itself. The delegation of legislative powers is, therefore, of a normal character.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Home-based workers are workers who produce goods or provide services for the market in their own home or in a structure attached to their own home. Most of the home-based workers produce goods for global supply chains across the world. The work they do can vary greatly and may include stitching garments and weaving textiles, stitching shoe uppers and footballs, producing craft products, processing and preparing food items, rolling incense sticks, cigarettes and cigars, assembling or packaging electronics, automobile parts, and pharmaceutical products etc. Although they remain largely invisible, home-based workers are engaged in many branches of industries—old and new—and represent a significant share of employment in global supplychains.

According to the 2017-18 India Periodic Labour Force Survey, there were about 35 million home-based workers representing 9.8 per cent. of all workers. A recent survey of 340 garment factories in Delhi and Bengaluru showed that 58 per cent. of surveyed factories outsource to home workers. These workers may be contracted directly by factories or through third party contractors.

Home-based workers are the most vulnerable among all informal economy workers. Relegated to the bottom of supply chains, they have the least bargaining power, the most insecure work, and low incomes. Majority of the workers lack social security, income security and health security. They also lack access to basic services such as water, health care, sanitation, and electricity which severely affect their lives and livelihoods.

Although home-based workers belong to the most vulnerable categories of workers, there is no official policies, programmes and schemes that protect their rights and welfare. The term home-based worker is not legally recognised. Hence, they remain as an exploited and invisible class of workers living under the mercy of global brands for whom they do the hard-work. It is critical for the Government to recognise and identify the problems of these large majority of workers and safeguard their legitimate rights and welfare through legislative and administrative actions. Considering the intensity and gravity of the problem, it is understood that an institutional framework with necessary powers, functions and capacity is an urgent policy priority.

Hence, the Bill seeks to attain the objectives mentioned above through the establishment of the National Commission for the Welfare of Home-based Workers.

SANDOSH KUMAR P.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clauses 3 of the Bill provides for establishment of the National Commission for the Welfare of Home-based Workers to carry out the responsibilities assigned to it. It also provides for appointment of a Chairperson, Deputy Chairperson, members, officers, staff and experts to the Commission. Clause 8 provides for the Central Government to provide adequate funds for the functioning of the Commission.

The Bill, therefore, if enacted, would involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India which cannot be estimated at present. Recurring expenditure is also likely to be incurred.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 11 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the purposes of the Bill. As the rules will relate to matters of detail only, the delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

Secretary-General.
